A ECTURE ON THE NATURE, TREATMENT, AND RADICAL CURE OF SPERMATORRHEA, or Seminal Weakness, Sexual Debility, Nervousness, and Involuntary Emissions, producing impotency, Consumption, and Mental and Physical Debility.

By ROB, J. CULVERWELL, M. D.

The important fact that the awful consequences of self-abuse may be effectually removed without internal medicines or the dangerous applications of caustics, instruments, medi sted busgies, and other empirical dovices, is here clearly demonstrated, and the entirely new bighly excessful treatment, as adopted by the criebrated author fully explained, by means of which every anc he enabled to cure himself perfectly, and at the least possibla cost, thereby avoiding all the advertised hostrums of the day. This Lecture will prove on to thousands and thou-ands.

EVERYBODY and his wife pronounce it the best in the world. They will stitch and Hem, Tuck and Fell, Gather and Embroider with perfection, and are particularly adapted to Family use.

They will sew all kinds of scode, from the finest to the coarsest, better than any other Machine extant, and may be med with excellent success in all kinds of light leather work. Any person of ordinary intelligence can in one hour learn to use them successfully. These Machines are warranted, and any person purchasing them can return them and get their money it, after a month's trial, they do not prove astisfactory.

The following are among the advantages thay possess over all other Machines.

1st. they are simple, strong, and durable, easily understood and managed, and not liable to get out of order.

2d. They are simple, strong, and durable, casily understood and managed, and not liable to get out of order.

2d. They use cotton from the ordinary spool without revinding, saving time, trouble, and waste.

2d. The use of the stronger and more difficult to rip than only other made by machinery, and is superior to the beet hand sawing. The two threads are double toped into each and finuly tied and knotted at every sitted. The principle of this sitch is the same as the celebrated (Irover & Baker's, with the exception that the objectionable cord on the amderside is entirely dispensed with, and leaves a perfectly strong, annoths thread squally well.

nexation should be accomplished. Cavour wished order to be produced in those States which had recently been freed ero any further movement's were made. Garibaldi, listening to Mazzuni and his friends, was unwilling to panso while an inch of Italy was still enthraled. He even talked of attacking Rome while the French were in it. In his recent speech at the opening of the Satdinian Chambers Cavour discussed the negation now me. his recent speech at the opening of the Satdinian Chambers Cavour discussed the question now presented to the inhabitants of Italy, and what he said fally sustains the character which has hitherto horne as a sistesman. While he praised the heroic conduct of Garibaldi and his volunteers, he insisted upon the necessity of desisting for the present from any attempla upon Rome or Venetia. Rightly did he say that the question as regards Rome, wes one not to be settled by the sword, but by moral force; and that for the liberation of Venetia, a strong and united Italy was necessary. by moral force; and that for the liberation of Venetis, a strong and united Italy was necessary. Like a true statesman, he said that uo time must be lost in giving to Sonthern Italy the opportunity for voting upon annexation, otherwise the national movement might be diverted from its track of moderation and self-command. Certainly no one possessed of common sense can question Cavour's policy. There is much to be done ere lietly can be placed in a position to cope with Austria, should the necessity for a collision occur. The States of Southern Italy must be organized, and the army and navy must be remodelled.

Stone, 1. F. & Co., Main et., bet. true, they are of no consequence. The protests of these powers would hardly be worth the paper they might be written on for they cannot intervene in Italian affeirs. England, France, and Italy would present a front against active intervention which they would hardly dare to attack. Europe is no longer to be parcelled ont by a few of her crowned heads, and no more "Holy Aliances" will have the effect of enstaining despotism. The people of Europe are now a power which Kings must respect. Even public opinion is something which these must yield to. Austria now thing which these must yield to. Austria now holds on to Venetia with a grasp of iron. Were the Italians to attack that province now, thoy would meet with an opposition which they could hardly overcome. Time, however, will do for them what arms will not do now. When Italy chall have been thoroughly organized, there will be no need for attacking Venetia. By that time the opinion of the principal powers of Europe will be in her favor. They will acknowledge the property of the right to Venetia, and Austria will be obliged to yield to this sentiment. Diplomacy will then secure to Italy what rightly belongs to her. If it should fail, Italy could then assort her.
